ECHO

No 76

ANZAC DAY COMMEMORATION MARCH 25 APRIL 2019

The 22nd Battalion Association, together with other kindred active WW1 Unit Associations, will “step-off” behind their Unit Banners from the assembly point on the north side of Flinders St West ,near Young and Jackson’s at 10:30 AM. WW1 Battalion Associations are now at the end of the March not the beginning.

Marchers (not young children) should be respectfully attired with personal medals on the left breast and family veteran’s, on the right.

On completion of the march members are encouraged to gather in the gardens, for a “chat”.

Before the March, 22nd members and their families should assemble as above at 10:00 AM where the 22nd Battalion Banner will be located. Members are encouraged to march thereby ensuring; “We will remember them”.

WE WILL REMEMBER THEM

Following the commemoration of the four years of World War 1, 1914-1918 it is timely to reflect on what we mean by “we will remember them”.

It has been stated, the principal legacy of WW1 was an atmosphere of hatred and resentment between Nations, between classes and between races. This predominately negative perspective disregards the replacement of the European autocratic Empires, dominated by aristocracy and army, by modern Republics and Constitutional monarchies. It gave rise to the League of Nations forerunner of the United Nations both of which, for all their weaknesses, have provided a basis for international collaboration.

UNITED NATIONS NEW YORK

The conflict between the Balkan countries and the Austro-Hungarian Empire fomenting in 1913 was triggered by the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand of Austria, by a Serbian nationalist. This caused Russia to mobilize its troops and for Germany to invade Belgium, threatening France and bringing Britain into the now declared war.

For Australia, the loss of its youthful manhood was horrific with 60,000 killed and 153,000 casualties, a significant proportion of whom would be permanently or partially incapacitated with subsequent and detrimental consequences for the livelihood of their families in terms of care and financial security.

ANZAC DAY MARCH 2019
22ND BATTALION MEMBERS
BEHIND THE BANNER

But what of the positive outcomes that we should be celebrating of Australia’s significant involvement in WW1? The prophetic answer is given by Billy Hughes, Australian Prime Minister at the time, addressing a crowd in London on 25 April 1919 at the Anzac Day March of 5000 Australian troops led by their leader, John Monash.

‘Hughes tells the crowd that Australia’s future was born on the shores of Gallipoli... This spirit of Australian nationality which has been born in the day of Anzac has permeated every atom of our being’.

This observation identifies the genesis of Australian values. Our moral compass, expressed in terms of loyalty to our country, faith in the correctness of our actions, freedom to express our views and respect those of others, aspiring to improve our future and that of others, to endure hardship and redress that of others, to be committed to opposing tyranny, terrorism and oppression and extend “mateship” to those around us.

We will remember them as the Australians who fought to uphold these values that inextricably define what it is to “Australian”.

22nd Battalion Association

Upon their return from Europe and the Great War in 1919, the former soldiers of the 22nd Battalion met and formed the Battalion Association to keep alive the Anzac spirit and legacy of mateship that was forged on the beaches and cliffs of Gallipoli and which defined the Australian through the tough fighting in France and Belgium, and beyond. As the years have passed the legacy has now been past to the relatives of the men that fought within the Battalion, under the stewardship today of Ian Russell, son of 524 Pte Fred Russell, the Honorary Secretary of the Association from its inauguration in 1920 until his death in 1978.

Each year the Association remembers those that served and marches on Anzac Day in Melbourne. In addition the Association produces an annual newsletter entitled the '22nd Battalion Association Echo', taking the name from the publication of the same title that the Battalion produced on active service in 1918 until the troops returned home.

The Website www.anzac-22nd-battalion.com was established by Greg Stephens, grandson of “Bob” a 22nd Battalion veteran, It is a valuable source and repository for contributions from Association members, particularly the “Collections “drill down of the “Family” section and a Facebook link. This project has now been archived in the “Pandora” project of the National Library of Australia ensuring its retention for posterity.

Ian Russell and Greg Stephens

Hon. Secretary Ian met with Greg, visiting Australia from the UK., on 27 February to review the 22nd's archives with a view to including some of the material in the above website. It is contemplated advice on events of 22nd Battalion Association interest will be posted.

ONE OF THE GREATEST IF NOT THE GREATEST AUSTRALIAN JOHN MONASH

It is sometimes claimed that Australia had no reason to take place in World War I. Even if one ignores the requirement for imperial defense, this is nonsense. Germany was present in the Pacific in the formidable capabilities of the East Asia Squadron in China, and there were German colonies in New Guinea and at Raguell.

Indeed it was the threat posed by the German cruiser Emden to the Anzac convoys that caused HMAS Sydney to pursue and sink the German raider off the Cocos Islands in November 1914.

Australia had its own national interests to consider in supporting Britain and the Empire. But the Gallipoli campaign was an epic failure. and Monash's performance in it was not regarded highly by his superiors, but the Australian correspondent Charles Bean recognized the essence of Monash's leadership skills..

Bean noted that he would make a better divisional than a brigade commander, and a better corps commander than a divisional one. Bean was one of Monash's most acerbic critics, partly a reflection of his latent anti-Semitism, but there can be no doubt that his assessment was peculiarly insightful.

MONASH LEADS 1931 ANZAC DAY MARCH ON HIS DAPPLED GREY CHARGER

But in 1918, Australian infantry had won brilliant battlefield engagements against the Germans, blunting Erich Ludendorff's final offensive.

Villiers Bretonneux was one such victory, led by Monash, and is still being commemorated in the township today with Australian place names and a school house sign that says: "Never Forget the Australians".

Le Hamel was another striking success. achieving Monash's underlying strategy of 'the least cost of human suffering possible' In Australian Prime Minister Hughes's view Monash is 'an outstanding figure of World War I'.

JOHN MONASH

Monash shone in command on the Western Front over the years 1917-18. He handled Australian troops with great skill and care, and his reputation grew, including with superiors such as Field Marshal Douglas Haig. In 1918, at the insistence of the Australian government, especially Prime Minister Billy Hughes, the five Australian divisions were grouped together in a corps and Monash was named commander in May.

But perhaps Monash's greatest achievement was to overcome the poisonous influence of anti-Semitism. The photo of George V knighting him on the battlefield dispelled any lingering doubts as to Monash's talents and loyalties. He had often been the victim of whispering campaigns but the knighthood represented accomplishment and acknowledgement.

KING GEORGE V KNIGHTING MONASH AT BERTANGLES FRANCE

Pertinent is Field Marshal Bernard Law Montgomery's assessment: I would name Sir John Monash as the best General on the Western Front in Europe; he possessed real creative originality, and the war might well have been won sooner, and certainly with fewer casualties, had Haig been relieved of his command and Monash given command of the British armies

VILLE-sur-ANCRE

This battle on 18 May 1918 was mainly the 22nd's as it was the only complete Battalion and most of the troops engaged.

This was the first important village recaptured after Villers Bretonneux in which the 5th Australian Division distinguished itself. The regaining of Ville-sur Ancre was seen as significant in raising the British morale and reducing that of the Germans.

At midnight 19 May the 22nd was allocated the task of taking the high ground south of the village, clearing it of the enemy and consolidating with the 21st and 23rd Battalions. At 2 AM an intense creeping artillery barrage swept the German lines followed closely by the Australian battalions that captured the enemy with little resistance.

In a sunken road known as the "Big Caterpillar" strongly held by the enemy heavy hand-to-hand fighting took place with the survivors of heavy casualties resulting from the long three-quarter mile frontage of the attack.

The village was defended on all sides by machine-guns and Germans from behind walled ruins that were blown apart by Lewis gun fire and bombs.

Sergeant Bill "Rusty" Ruthven of the 22nd, a wood machinist from Collingwood, rushed around like a terrier chasing rats. He disables a machine-gun post with a Mills grenade and then leaps in among the stunned Germans, bayoneting one and capturing the machine gun. He is rushed by some of the enemy coming out of a shelter, but wounds one and captures six others. Then, armed with a revolver, he starts chasing Germans on foot. He rushes an enemy position and shoots two men who refuse to surrender, then single-handedly captures the whole garrison, taking 32 prisoners.

SERGEANT BILL RUTHVEN VC

During the rest of the day, this non-commissioned officer set a splendid example of leadership, moving up and down the position under fire, supervising consolidation and encouraging the men. Throughout the whole operation he showed the most magnificent courage and determination inspiring everyone by his fine fighting spirit, his remarkable courage, and his dashing action.

Sergeant Bill Ruthven was awarded the Victoria Cross "For most conspicuous bravery and initiative in action at Ville-sur Ancre" This was the first Victoria Cross awarded to any member of the 6th Brigade, He was subsequently promoted to 2nd Lieutenant.

MONASH PRESENTS VC TO SGT. "RUSTY" RUTHVEN
FRANCE 13 JULY 1918

It is significant that on 18 May 1918 the Australian Government approves General Birdwood's recommendation, in the absence of Prime Minister Billy Hughes, who is sailing to England and the opposition of Bean, war correspondent, aided by journalist Keith Murdoch on whom he places great reliance.

As Lieut. General Monash takes over from Birdwood on 30 May 1918 and on that day advises his Australian 3rd Division that he is taking command of the whole now Australian Corps.

Glasgow from Queensland takes charge of the 1st Division, Rosenthal the 2nd, Gellibrand a Tasmanian the 3rd, Sinclair-Maclagan the 4th, and Hobbs the 5th.

With Brigadier General Tom Blamey as chief-of-staff He moves to the chateau at Bertangles and despite the intrigue as to whether he will be appointed General Officer Commanding in London, Hughes he accepts Hughes's offer of the Corps command and concentrates on the fighting. He submits a battle plan "Hamel Offensive" to Rawlinson commander British 4th Army in which he proposes "to advance under the maximum possible protection of the maximum possible array of mechanical resources, in the form of guns, machine-guns, tanks, mortars and aeroplanes.

The battle is planned to take 90 minutes and actually takes 93 and with less casualties than would have been expected with previous tactics.

On 13 November 1918 Hughes appoints Monash Director-General. A final accolade comes from arch critic Bean that Monash was "our greatest military leader".

Extract- "Monash The soldier who shaped Australia" Grantlee Kieza

22ND BATTALION ASSOCIATION MEMBERS
ANZAC DAY MARCH 2018

The reversed "Order of March", with WW1 contingents at the rear worked well. A dedicated number of 22nd Battalion Association members participated and gathered at the Shrine Service following. The 22nd Banner with those of other Units were massed at the front of the Shrine.

RSL CHURCH SERVICE

The RSL Vic. Invited WW1 Unit Associations to attend the Service at St Paul's Cathedral on Sunday 15 April 2018 as part of the 100th anniversary of the battle of Villers Bretonneux. The 22nd Battalion Banner was processed with those of other WW1 Associations at the commencement of the Service.

PROTOCOL/GUIDELINES FOR DESCENDANTS IN ANZAC DAY MARCH 2018

Participating in the official March after two years absence is great but brings with the responsibility to do so with dignity and respect in memory of our "22nd" forebears in particular.

- Marchers (not young children) must be respectfully dressed in accordance with the solemnity of the Commemoration March (sporting gear/ footwear/torn jeans/photos are not approved).
- Descendants should wear the medals of forebears on the right breast; their own on the left.
- Marchers are form up 6 abreast and maintain step with the Banner Bearer.
- At the Eternal Flame in the forecourt (not the official dais) "Eyes Right" will be ordered and the Battalion Banner lowered. Once past "Eyes Front" will be ordered and the Banner raised.

Strict adherence to these reflects the commitment to remember them.
